to know. One can envision families of many age levels learning together from computer terminals in the home."

With computerized teaching, he said, "there is no need for common entrance age for all children, no need for a common school day."

Dr. John I. Goodlad, dean of the Graduate School of Education at the University of California at Los Angeles, drew his picture of future education.

"With rapid advancement and rapid outmoding of knowledge," he said, "age becomes a poor criterion for knowing or needing school day."

A. M. & N. Offers An Exchange Challenge

Last week, eight Graceland students piled into two cars and headed toward Kansas City. They were to talk with and meet with representatives of the A. M. & N. College.

(ACP) -- The Indian, Stena College, Loudonville, N. Y. Education experts predicted last week that computers soon will teach such basic skills as reading and mathematics in one-tenth the time and at half the cost now required. Schools as we know them will disappear, they said.

The forecasts were made in a symposium on computer-assisted education at a meeting of the National Academy of Science of the California Institute of Technology.

Dr. Ralph W. Gerard, dean of the graduate division of the University of California at Irvine, said "The impact of computers on education will be more important than was the development of printing."

Sue Percell and Janie Kay were bound for Pine Bluff, Ark. along with Johnny Newport, Charlie Bishop, Dave Cline and Bob Banta.

That trip was the second-half of the Arkansas A.M. & N. Graceland exchange program for this year. The Graceland students who hosted AM&N students for four days in February were in turn, being hosted by the guests.

Enrollment at AM&N is approximately three times that of Graceland and so it seemed there were three times as much to do, especially in our four days. Along with many formal social exchange meetings and tours of the campus, there were classes to attend, divisions

Student Exchange

Graceland and Arkansas A.M. & N. Colleges cooperated in a student exchange program on the Graceland campus at Lamoni, Iowa, on February 12-16. Sponsored by the student government and approved by Dr. Albert Muller, dean of students, and Dr. William T. Higdon, president of the college, the program involved the visit of eight students from A.M. & N. It is planned that later the Graceland host group will visit the A.M. & N. campus, probably in late March or early April.

Arkansas A.M. & N. College, with an enrollment of approximately 4,000 students, is nearly four times the size of Graceland, with the percentage of black and white students inversely proportional to that of Graceland. Several students from this school were on the campus for an Afro-American conference last year.

Plans for the inauguration of the program were initiated when three Graceland students, Robert Banta, a senior from North Bay, Ontario; Mervyn Horne, a sophomore from Kansas City, Missouri; and David Cook, a senior from Independence, Missouri, visited A.M. & N. campus in Pine Bluff, Arkansas, last November. Banta, while acknowledging the limitations of the present plans, suggested that it was the hope of the group that the exchange would develop to the point where a semester-long exchange can be undertaken.

The pilot program at Graceland fitted into an Afro-American Culture Week which was held during the week of the visit. This program was under the leadership of Dr. George B. King, visiting professor at Graceland during the second semester, assisted by members of the Graceland faculty. Dr. King is professor of history at Paine College, Augusta, Georgia.

Solah House shared together in many meaningful times. Some of these moments were in worship at Thursday devotions.

Everyone shared. Each week different roommates took charge.

THE CRUEL WORLD

The cruel world is moving,
People are in flight
God wants to be with them
From morning 'til night.
He wants them to love him,
It grieves his heart so,
Won't they let Him go with them?
Some say "Oh, No."

Tomorrow's today.
This is the day when you Savior is calling,
But do you obey?
Your Savior is calling
It grieves his heart so,
Won't you answer more quickly
and help his work grow?

He'll give you the blessings of life that are his,
if only you'll answer
and make your work His.
If only you'll answer
and walk in his way.
Your life will be richer
Than all men can pay.

Some say they're too busy
They haven't got the time to serve the great master
of all of mankind.
"Savior, I love you"
Please make this my reply,
and help me to serve you
Until I shall die.

ACCIDENT CLAIMS GRACELAND STUDENT

A one-car accident near Iowa City Sunday night took the life of Dawn Porter. She was returning to Graceland with Andy Russell, Sherry Church, and Larry Jordan when the car hit the shoulder of the road, went out of control and rolled. Dawn was thrown from the car. According to her sister-in-law, Mrs. Steve Porter, she died instantly of a fractured skull.

Larry Jordan sustained head cuts and bruises. He will remain in the Iowa City hospital for about a week to undergo medical tests. Neither of the other girls was seriously injured.

Dawn, a freshman in Solah house, had gone home to Greenwood, Indiana, for Thanksgiving. She arranged to ride back with a group of students who were returning from Pennsylvania.

Rod and Cheryl McDowell, Ruth Garrett, and Chris Arbanas were traveling with the Jordan party. The cars got separated and the McDowell party stopped to let the others catch up. While waiting they heard sirens and saw the ambulance. They called the State Patrol to find out what had happened, and learned of the accident.

A campus memorial service was held Wednesday morning. Dean Yates and J. C. Stuart attended funeral services today in Wabash, Indiana.
